Easter Sunday

16.04.2017

Responsorial Psalm

(R.) This is the day the Lord has made; let us rejoice and be glad.

1. Give thanks to the Lord for he is good,
for his love has no end.
Let the sons of Israel say:
'His love has no end.' (R.)

2. The Lord's right hand has triumphed;
his right hand raised me up.
I shall not die, I shall live and recount his deeds. (R.)

3. The stone which the builders rejected has become the corner stone.
This is the work of the Lord,
a marvel in our eyes. (R.)

Gospel Acclamation

Project Compassion

This is the day that the Lord has made! Let us be glad and rejoice in it!

This day is the day of Resurrection. This is the day death has been conquered.

This is the day when women, faithful women who stood at the foot of the cross, witnessed the resurrection and spread the good news.

This is the day we remember light, water, oil, life, death, resurrection and the bread and wine of the Eucharist.

This is the day when we rest from our fasting and almsgiving, and this is the day we celebrate with our community, our family and our friends.

This is the day when we feast and we also continue to stand with the poor and most vulnerable of the world; and this is the day that we realise we need one another and we have a shared responsibility for all our neighbours, those near and those far away.

Caritas Australia, as the Catholic agency for aid and development, joins the wider Church in building a world where all human beings can live in dignity, and communities are empowered to be the architects of their own development.

We thank you for helping to empower our neighbours, through the support you so generously give each year during Project Compassion.

REFLECTION

by Dianne Bergant CSS

Easter is the season of mystical catechesis, that instruction that unpacks the hidden mystery of the experience of the sacraments of initiation received or renewed at Easter. The readings of each Sunday concentrate on some aspect of this mystery. The central theme of this Sunday is newness of life in Christ. This newness is not without its historical context. It burst forth first in the resurrection of Christ, and then through the preaching of the first Christians.

The readings testify that if we die with Christ, we will appear with him in glory; if we cast out the old yeast, we will be fresh dough. And when this wondrous transformation takes place, everything is new; everything is fresh. To what newness are we called? To what must we die in order to rise transformed? What old yeast of corruption must be cast out in order that we might be fresh dough? At Easter we renew our baptismal vows. What is it that we really renounce? Ours is a world of violence, of prejudice, of indifference. Too often we harbour feelings of anger and resentment, of selfishness and disdain. Easter proclaims that Christ has died and has risen; with him we die to all of the wickedness in our lives and in our world, and we set our hearts on higher things, on sincerity and on truth.
