Colac and Apollo Bay Parishes are a community of believers, who strive to bring Christ's good news to all people in the district. Through service, caring and love we aim to create an environment of respect and understanding in which everyone can grow. We acknowledge the First nations Peoples of these lands, seas and waterway on which we gather. The First Nations peoples of these places were the first to dance stories and remember times of healing and hurt. We acknowledge the elders past and present, and future.

'We pray that Educators may be credible teachers – helping the young and vulnerable.'
 Pope Francis.

RESPONSORIAL PSALM:

Blessed are the poor in spirit; the kingdom of heaven is theirs!

The LORD keeps faith forever, secures justice for the oppressed,
gives food to the hungry.

The LORD sets captives free. The LORD gives sight to the blind; the LORD raises up those who were bowed down. The LORD loves the just; the LORD protects strangers. The fatherless and the widow the LORD sustains, but the way of the wicked he thwarts.

The LORD shall reign forever; your God, O Zion, through all generations.

Blessed are the poor in spirit; the kingdom of heaven is theirs!

Pope Francis January Intention For Educators

We pray that educators
may be credible witnesses, teaching Sisterhood /Brotherhood rather than competition and helping the youngest and most above all vulnerable.

CHANGING HEARTS AND MINDS: 'GOANNA FRONTMAN - SHANE HOWARD;

After initial reluctance I accepted Shire's offer as Australia Day Ambassador for 2023.

For the first time, the day will commence with reflection and remembrance, with a smoking ceremony – led by Uncle Rob Lowe and Brett Clarke. All are invited. In many places, all over Australia such remembrance events are already happening. It is a difficult day. In the past, I supported the 'Change of Date' campaign. But in 2020, I was invited to perform Solid Rock at the 2020 Australia Day ceremony in Burnie, Tasmania. I politely declined, but council entered into discussions with the Tasmania Aboriginal Centre and reached agreement for me to sing at the Australia Day ceremony in Burnie and later, at the Survival Day ceremony in Devonport. At both events, black and white speakers talked of the need to reach across the divide and work together to move our story forward. I saw people changed that day. I was too. I wondered if changing the date of Australia Day might be less significant than changing what we do on that day, of any other date, if what we do is done with agreement and respect.

- As sorrowful as January 26th is, it is real, it has power, it marks change for all of us and calls us to face our history honestly and courageously.
- In the wake of the success of Goanna and Solid Rock, I was drawn deeper into Aboriginal Australia as we toured the country. I heard, first-hand, stories of dispossession, of massacres, stolen children, repeated racism and neglect of mission systems and all manner of hardships and prohibitions, constantly oppressing Aboriginal people.
- Are we courageous enough to face the hard truth of our won history and have the hard conversations to make changes?
- Dr Diana James, who has dedicated much of her working life assisting Anangu people of the Western Desert, believes "it's time to sing a new song in this country. It is time to build on the bridges of respect and understanding laid down by those who have led the way, both black and white, over many years of struggle and pain".
- I wrote Solid Rock because I dreamt of a better country, respectful of our ancient history honest about our modern history unified by celebrating our diversity. I wanted to be proud of my country.
- We've come a long way, but life is still too hard for Aboriginal people in Australia and in our region.
- I think Australians are inherently, good-hearted, decent and generous people.
- Changes do not divide us; they unify us and we lose nothing. We gain a nation we can all be proud of.
- There is much to celebrate in our national story. Australians can be justly proud to have created a great and resilient democracy and one of the most successful multicultural societies in the world. Migrants for war-torn countries are grateful of our peace and stability. Australia has given so many of us opportunities and a new start. Dianna James maintains: "We who are born on this land, or have journeyed a long way to get her, love this country and need to learn to take care of it together. On Australis Day we come together to mourn our losses and celebrate the rich tapestry of First Nations and immigrant languages arts, music, day and song that now weave a blanket of our shared belonging".
- Dewayne Everett Smith said, very generously. "This is not about a black history or a white history. Its about our history."
