

DIOCESAN EDUCATION LEADERS GATHER

Diocesan Education leaders gathered in Horsham on October 30 and 31 to continue the strategic planning work commenced earlier in the year. The days were facilitated by Dr Jayne-Louise Collins and Ms Trish Hindmarsh, who lead the group through the workshops looking at the draft Strategic Intent for Catholic Education 2020-2024.

Principals and leaders from across the diocese were challenged to think of how we might come to know and deeply understand ourselves as a learner, a leader and a partner – in relationship with others, in our local and diocesan communities - as we strive to enact our diocesan vision “... as partners in Catholic education and open to God’s presence, we pursue fullness of life for all”.

A dinner was held in the evening where Principals who were finishing at their respective schools were recognised for their service as leaders in the Diocese. Sue Paulka from St Patrick’s Port Fairy, Kim Butler from St Columba’s Ballarat North, Mark Moloney from St Patrick’s Koroit and Rosa Tocchet from St Thomas More Alfredton were acknowledged.
