WHO COULD YOU BE? ACU OPEN DAY

Deciding what to study is a pretty momentous decision. This is the main reason why Australian Catholic University (ACU) runs Open Day — it's everything students need, in one place, to help make their choice. ACU's Ballarat campus threw open its doors to future students on Sunday 27 August 2017.

ACU Ballarat Campus Dean Professor Bridget Aitchison said that Open Day gave future students and their families the opportunity to gain a better understanding of ACU. "We had academics, course experts, support staff and admission gurus on-hand and ready to help," she said.

"Students could ask about courses, applications, pathways, scholarships, studying overseas, accommodation, financial support and more. It was also an opportunity to participate in a campus tour, meet current students and course lecturers."

"ACU offers a friendly, supportive environment for students preparing for careers in schools, hospitals, businesses and a range of other workplaces."

ACU is the university for people who march to the beat of a different drum – a beat that comes from within.

People who wanted to make a positive impact through their career of choice were encouraged to come along and learn more about:

- ACU's courses in education, theology, philosophy and health sciences such as nursing, paramedicine and physiotherapy
- ACU's connections with industry
- University life
- Scholarships and financial support
- Overseas study options
- Different ways of securing a place in courses of choice
- Winning $5,000 for an ACU study trip to Rome.

Open Day at ACU's Ballarat Campus was also a fun day out with live entertainment, lots of giveaway goodies and great food.
