Integrity in the Service of the Church

Principle People observing this principle will:

3.1 Church Workers know, understand and respect the physical and emotional boundaries of adults, children and young people

3.1.1 Understand that: an unsafe relationship is one that poses risk to the emotional, physical or sexual health of any of the individuals involved; an unsupportive relationship is one that does not recognise the needs of those it is supposed to assist; and unsafe and unsupportive relationships have an extremely harmful impact on human dignity and self-esteem.

3.1.2 Be conscious of and respect the physical and emotional space and privacy required by others.

3.1.3 Provide pastoral support always in accordance with proper accountability guidelines.

3.1.4 Provide pastoral support in places that offer sufficient safe, open and visible environments.

3.1.5 Recognise that physical contact can be necessary and helpful in giving care, comfort or affirmation, and follow the appropriate standards for such contact.

3.1.6 Interact with others in a consistent professional manner.

3.1.7 Work within a well-defined role description that complies with the relevant legal obligations associated with the tasks.

Church Workers are aware of the dangers involved when the boundaries between personal and service relationships are blurred

3.2.1 Consciously draw distinctions between the role as church worker and other social interactions.

3.2.2 Monitor any unavoidable dual relationships and evaluate their impact on those being served with the assistance of a third party if appropriate or needed.

3.3 Church Workers understand the importance of meeting their own personal emotional needs outside work relationships

3.3.1 Reflect on the reasons for undertaking Church work to determine that they are grounded in a desire to be of service to others rather than in a need for emotional attachment or fulfilment.

3.3.2 Maintain a reasonable balance between time spent at work and other aspects of life, such as family, friends and community.

3.4 Church Workers take appropriate action when a relationship is not benefitting those being served.

3.4.1 Recognise when service relationships are becoming unsafe and/or ineffective and be prepared to terminate those relationships with appropriate referral.
