JOHN PAUL II, THE ROMANTIC POPE

The article I have run off for you this week, from the London Tablet is about Pope John Paul's close relationship with a Polish woman philosopher. I want to stress that he was never furtive about this relationship. Now that his letters to her have been published, there are raised eyebrows here and there. So Be it. The woman felt free enough with him to be able to tell him at times that he was talking rubbish. Surely every pope needs a woman like that. The final article, to be put out next Sunday id from the London Economist. Entitled water into wine, it is about the burgeoning wine industry in Tasmania.
