22nd Sunday in Ordinary Time (C)

Sunday 28th August 2016- Migrant & Refugee Sunday

Reflection by Fr. Gabriele Bentoglio

Our readings for today, especially the first reading and the gospel, talk about humility and its importance. What is humility? I will tell you a story. Three persons were boasting to each other on who had the best Bible translation. The first said, "Mine is the best translation because this is a New American Bible. This is being used in the Mass. The words used are modern and easy to understand." The second man boasted, "Mine is the best because this is Jerusalem Bible. Very poetic and it is used in our charismatic group meeting." The third man said, "I like the Bible translation of my mother because she translated it into her concrete life; she lives everything written on it." The other two were silent. The story summarizes the challenge of Jesus Christ in our gospel today. Jesus challenges us to translate the word of God into our daily lives. Challenging us to make the Bible alive in our hearts, minds and deeds. This is one way of being humble, and humility could be understood as a synonym of mercy. Today this is indeed challenging, as we celebrate Migrants' Day following the guidelines given to us by Pope Francis in his Message delivered for this occasion on the theme: Migrants and Refugees Challenge Us. The Response of the Gospel of Mercy. This message coincides with the celebration of the Jubilee Year of Mercy, strongly desired by Pope Francis. That is why the Papal Message puts in close connection the protagonists of the phenomenon of migration, migrants and refugees, but also the international community, both strongly invited to answer to this burning issue through the answer of the Gospel, which is condensed in the theme of mercy. This year, Migrants' Day comes during one of the most critical moments in the history of contemporary migrations. In fact, we live in a phase in which the despair of millions of migrants and refugees has captured the attention of global public opinion. I mean the tragedy of mobility, especially that of forced mobility, and at the same time, the limits of the systems of protection of the international community. Today the global phenomenon of human mobility changes its face very quickly, involving all areas of the world. Because so-called "mixed flows" are now a daily reality, it prevents the distinction between economic and forced migration. The trafficking of women, men and children is growing atrociously, present in almost all countries of the world either as lands of origin, transit or destination for the victims. It is estimated that trafficking is currently the third source of income for organized crime, after drugs and weapons. Pope Francis' Message speaks of this world. In the document, the Pope reiterates the key principles of the Teaching of the Church on this matter, insisting on the dignity of every human person, regardless of its legal status. Special emphasis is given to what I would call the prophetic significance of migrants and refugees who, as stated in the text of the Message, "challenge individuals and communities, and their traditional ways of life; at times they upset the cultural and social horizons which they encounter." We can end up becoming accomplices of traffickers of human beings, "the tragic stories of millions of men and women daily confront the international community as a result of the outbreak of unacceptable humanitarian crises in different parts of the world. Indifference and silence lead to complicity whenever we stand by as people are dying of suffocation, starvation, violence and shipwreck. Whether large or small in scale, these are always tragedies, even when a single human life is lost."

Adult faith opportunity in the Cathedral Parish

Following the conclusion of the Alpha adult faith program (Alpha is a series of sessions exploring the Christian faith. Each talk looks at a different question around faith and is designed to create conversation) the program was evaluated by participants. Some of the comments received:

- The ALPHA topics were very pertinent, and I experienced a challenging and deepening of my Christian faith. As we gathered and connected with fellow parishioners in a more meaningful way encouraging each other, I looked forward to the Thursdays, and hope to have similar future gatherings. May the thirst and fire of God's love and understanding spread through our parishes. It has increased my enthusiasm to be part of something ongoing relating to the Word, and growing together in outreach-which many of the group also shared

To continue this opportunity those who participated in Alpha have meet again and have agreed to a monthly adult faith gathering to be held in the smaller Cathedral hall at 7.00 pm on the first Thursday of each month. The format will be informal with conversation and hospitality with one of the participants leading with a reflection, issues, film ... followed by discussion. The Gospel for the following Sunday will also be reflected upon. Interested persons are very welcome to attend.

Annual Collection for Sick and Retired Priests – this weekend

Eighteen retired priests are currently supported by this Ballarat Clergy Support Fund. Some live privately, some are retired in units in Ballarat or elsewhere, others live in supported accommodation. The funding required for these commitments is ongoing. Thanks to your generosity, this collection has raised nearly 1.7 million dollars since it began in 1991, including nearly $54,000 last year. Along with the priests' own contribution of approximately $38,000 per year, this annual collection has allowed the Fund to continue to support our sick and retired clergy. A credit card facility is available for your convenience, and contributions over $2.00 are tax-deductible. Envelopes are available and may be returned via the collection on Sundays.
