HUMOUR:

After the baptism of his baby brother in church, little Johnny sobbed all the way home in the back seat of the car. His father asked him three times what was wrong.

Finally, the boy replied, "That priest said he wanted us children brought up in a good Christian home, but I want to stay with you guys!"

NEWS:

$100M BLOW TO CATHOLIC SCHOOLS

Published: 05 May 2017

Catholic schools fear a $100 million blow to their federal funding under the Turnbull government's education reforms, raising the spectre of a "funding cliff" in four years, The Australian reports.

The Catholic Education Commission of Victoria (CECV) has sounded the alarm on a controversial formula at the heart of the changes that could slow the growth in funding to the sector to just 1.9 per cent after 2021, fuelling concerns that threaten to divide the Coalition backbench ahead of a partyroom "showdown" on Tuesday.

The government moved last night to counter the fears by citing Treasury forecasts that show real funding growth of 3.5 per cent every year on average over the decade to 2027, highlighting a stand-off over a fundamental part of the reform plan.

As tensions mount within the Coalition, Acting Prime Minister Barnaby Joyce said there might be "further tweaking" based on advice from David Gonski, the head of the review that created the model to fund schools based on their need. "We never completely close our minds," Mr Joyce said last night.

Education Minister Simon Birmingham dialled up the heat on the Catholic sector and premiers by saying critics of his reform were trying to "blackmail or bully" the government to extract more money.

Advisers to the CECV estimate the flexible rate amounts to 1.9 per cent, a big fall in long-term growth that will be legislated to last until 2027 or beyond. Wage deals already locked in by the Victorian Catholics of 3.2 per cent for teachers will produce a funding gap that will compound over the last seven years of the package.

The $25m funding gap in the first year will be spread across all 207,000 students in the state sector, raising costs by about $120 per student in that first year and creating the prospect of higher fees. Because the shortfall grows by $25m each year, the CECV estimates the cost per student could double to $240 in the second year, $360 in the third year and with similar increases afterwards.

CECV executive director Stephen Elder said: "Every school should be scared about this (indexation), not just ours. After the first three years of sugar-coating there will be seven years of pain. These are real funding cuts. And this is the story (Senator Birmingham) is not telling people."

SCRIPTURE REFLECTION

This is 'Good Shepherd Sunday' and a particular focus taken today is leadership. Which voices do we follow? Why do we follow these voices and not others? Authentic leadership is rooted in authority, and authentic authority is the ability to author or bring life to birth. Genuine authority cherishes, guards and encourages the best in life; it provides rest and refreshment; it guides our steps; it nourishes us; it leads us to God. Peter is an example of authentic authority: he proclaims the truth, even if others find it hard to hear; he denounces error, even when this places him in jeopardy; he calls for a change of heart, even when it makes great demands.

Authentic leadership is patterned after the leadership of Jesus. It is gentle and familiar, like the true shepherd; it has won the confidence of those who follow, as did the true shepherd; it is committed to the enhancement of the lives of others, as was Jesus. Authentic leadership is willing to forgo its own needs and to deny its own interests in favour of the needs and interests of others.

Heavy demands are placed on those who follow authentic leadership. Those who follow the Good Shepherd must follow him in the dark valleys as well as to the refreshing streams. They must be willing to relinquish some of their own plans and self-determination and entrust themselves to his leadership. They must never forget that they are following a shepherd who has paid the ultimate price on their behalf.
