SCRIPTURE REFLECTION by Fr Francis Fernandez

WE ARE CHRIST'S APOSTLES.
WE BELONG IN THE WORLD.

The Church has indeed reached “the ends of the earth,” but there are still very many people who do not know Christ, perhaps even in our own family, among our friends and the people we meet daily. It is possible that many have heard often about Jesus but in reality don't know him.

Our Lord wants us to play a part in his mission to save humankind, and he has provided apostolic zeal as an integral component of the Christian vocation. The person who decides to follow Jesus, as you and I have done, becomes an apostle with very definite responsibilities for helping others find the narrow door that leads to heaven:

Inserted as they are in the Mystical Body of Christ by Baptism and strengthened by the power of the Holy Spirit in Confirmation, it is by the Lord himself that they are assigned to the apostolate. (Vatican Council II, Apostolicam actuositatem, 3.)

All Catholics, whatever their age or background, in all circumstances of their lives, are called to bear witness to Christ all the world over.

Apostolic zeal — the desire to draw many people to Our Lord — does not require us to do anything odd or peculiar, much less to neglect our family, social or professional duties. It is precisely in our family, at work, with our friends, in everyday human relationships, that we find scope for an apostolic activity which may often be silent, but which is always efficacious. In the middle of the world, where God has placed us, we must bring Christ to others:

- by our example — putting our faith into practice; being always cheerful; refusing to be perturbed by the difficulties which are typical of the human condition; and
- by our words — always being ready to encourage others; in some cases inviting people to the sacraments; and in other cases putting new heart into people who were on the verge of abandoning the Master.

Let us ask ourselves today in our prayer if the people who know us can readily recognize us as disciples of Christ. Are we not only Christians, but seen to be Christians? Let us consider how many we have helped to take a decisive step on the path to heaven. How many have we spoken to about God, or recommended that they should read a good book which would help their spiritual life? Whom have we helped to go to confession, or to whom explained the Church's teaching on family or marriage? It was said of the first Christians that “what the soul is to the body, Christians are to the world.” Could the same be said of us in family life, among our colleagues at work or at school, or in the cultural or sporting associations to which we belong? Are we the soul that infuses the life of Christ into society wherever we happen to be?
