RESPONSORIAL PSALM:

*O Lord, our God,
how wonderful your name in all the earth!*

*When I see the heavens, the work of your hands,
the moon and the stars which you arranged,
what is man that you should keep him in mind,
mortal man that you care for him?*

*Yet you have made him little less than a God;
with glory and honour you crowded him,
gave him power over the works of your hand,
put all things under his feet.*

*All of them, sheep and cattle,
yes, even the savage beasts,
birds of the air, and fish that make their way through the waters.*

Extracts from - "Homily for the Solemnity of Pentecost, Year C 2022." - 5 June 2022;

prepared by Fr Frank Brennan S.J. He sent it to me las Sunday evening after I texted the message of sympathy to him: (Justice Gerard Brennan) died last week:

A month ago, I was called to my father's bedside to anoint him. Death seemed imminent. As it turned out, he lived another month often saying, "I just wish the good Lord would take me. This is so tedious." I was privileged to be able to spend considerable time with him in those extra days of life. It's those days and his ultimate death which give meaning to me this feast of Pentecost. St Paul goes on to say: "The spirit you received is not the spirit of slaves bringing fear into your lives again; it is the spirit of sons, and it makes us cry out, 'Abba, Father!' The Spirit himself and our spirit bear united witness that we are children of God." A few days before Dad's death, I was attending a public meeting. A woman introduced herself and thanked me for my father. He had been the chancellor of the university from which her daughter had graduated in nursing many years before. She vividly recalls the chancellor's graduation address. The graduands were all future nurses or teachers. He said to them: "As nurses and teachers, you will never earn a lot of money. But you have the opportunity to enjoy the most fulfilled of lives. As nurses, you will accompany people at the most vulnerable stages of their lives. As teachers, you will have the opportunity to provide all manner of young people with access to a life of meaning, fulfilment and purpose." In the days leading up to his death, nothing gave him greater consolation than to have one of his children, at lights out, pray the prayer of Ignatius Loyola: "Take, Lord, receive all my liberty, my memory, my understanding, my whole will, all that I have and all that I possess. You gave it all to me, Lord; I give it all back to you." The parish of St Canice's at Kings Cross was the home parish for Gerard and his beloved Patricia for 20 years. We come to St Canice's to answer these challenges, to be supported by others who are on the same journey and to be encouraged when we fail. We give thanks for one another and for the comfort of being pilgrims together. "Meditation and the study of the scriptures strengthen the spiritual life of the parish. We are proud of our recently refurbished church and its surrounds but, more importantly, we are proud of the variety of people who make up the church that we know. St Canice's extends its welcome to all – to the lonely people of the street and to the comfortable middle class, to the transvestites and the fashionistas, to the public figures and the unknown, to the hungry and the well fed, to the devout and the doubtful. "There is openness in our parish life, welcoming the refugees, feeding the hungry and clothing the naked. Canice's Kitchen offers both food and hospitality. "St Canice's is a parish, but it is not parochial. .... The ecumenical spirit has grown as we formed relationships with other Christian communities in our area. For 130 years, we have sought and found the living God in word and sacrament and one another. We are human beings who need saving and the forgiveness that comes from the love of God in Jesus. All of us – the rich and the poor, the happy and the sad, the defensive and the enquirers, the peace makers and the dividers, the hard of heart and the compassionate – have been given life and hope and faith and love beyond our dreams and we want to share what we have been given."_This Pentecost, I ask you to join me in giving thanks for Gerard who displayed the gifts of the Spirit in abundance: wisdom, understanding, counsel, fortitude, knowledge, piety, and fear of God. This Pentecost let's give thanks for all those parents and saints who have gone before us with interests in the spiritual since the Spirit of God made her home in them.
Lord, send out your Spirit, and renew the face of the earth. – (Fr Frank Brennan S.J)
